NEWS OF THE DAY.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

The report of the Singapore Electric Tramways states that the net profits for 1915 were £3,883, after providing for debenture interest, and the surplus profit brought from previous year was increased to £6,033.

Watch thieves seem to have struck "a good patch" yesterday morning between 2 and 6. Mr. Nammas had stolen from his house at 3, Condit Road, a gold watch and chain valued at £250 and $4 in small money. The thief entered the house over the verandah.

Mr. S. E. Lucas, who has been manager of the Peking branch of the Chartered Bank, has been appointed assistant manager of the head office of the Bank of China. A meeting of shareholders held at Shanghai decided not to recognise the appointment on the ground that it was made without their knowledge and consent.

In addition to Mr. Bailey Alston, C.B., who is coming out to China from the British Foreign Office to take the place of Mr. Macleay, Mr. Lampton is also coming to Peking for duty at the British Legation, reports a northern contemporary. Mr. Lampton is not a new-comer to the Far East, having been in Japan about ten years ago.

IF RUBBER FELL TO 2s.

Great interest has been taken, says a mail paper quoted by the "Straits Echo" (Penang), in a statistical table bearing the above heading. The table shows very clearly that the increase in rubber dividends for 1916 does not depend on 8s. rubber, or even on an average price of 2s. 6d. Most of the established dividend-payers, it is pointed out, are now producing their crops at an all-in cost not much above 1s. per lb., and the following examples, among others, are given of earnings during 1916 on the basis of 1s. per lb. net profit:

Company	Last dividend per cent.	Current year's earnings at 1s. per lb. net profit per cent.
Aloe Pongu	20	83
Bernam-Panak Pre- torence	6	20
Bukit Kajang	22½	35
Glenisliel	25	45
Melinau	18½	30
Serdang Central	12½	20

One or two of these companies, it is true, still report costs which are comparatively high, but there is scarcely a company in the list whose costs during 1916 are likely to exceed, say, 1s. 6d., and in view of the high prices already realised by a portion of this year's outputs, it may not unreasonably be argued that if rubber sold at 2s. per lb. for the remainder of the year the average profit in each case would certainly not be less than 1s. per lb. In fact, in more than one of the examples selected, a gross average selling price of 2s. 6d. per lb.
 for 1916 would give the company profits higher by 50 per cent. than the earnings shown in the above estimates.

At Komatiopoor the guns had stuck in the mud. Neither horses nor men could move them. Kitcheners dismounted, got his timber off, was at a spare place against the timber, and was pushing himself and the gun out of the mud. It was not Kitcheners' strength, then, moved it but the climbing down of this man to their level put fresh heart into the troopers.

DON'T NEGLECT YOUR FAMILY.

WHEN you fail to provide your family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at this season of the year, you are neglecting them, as bowel complaint is sure to be prevalent, and it is too dangerous a malady to be trifled with. This is especially true if there are children in the family. A dose or two of this remedy will place the trouble within control and perhaps save a life, or at least a doctor's bill. For sale by all Chemists and Storekeepers.

CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

FATAL QUARREL OVER CLOGS.

There stood his trial, on a charge of manslaughter at the Criminal Sessions to-day, a coolie named Wong Lam, who was accused of causing the death of another coolie called Ah Po. He pleaded not guilty.

The jury was—Messrs. A. W. Elias (foreman), R. D. F. Smith, E. F. Soull, W. Gardner, J. C. M. Botelho, C. E.
 Tanaka, and J. D. Azelo.

The Crown Solicitor, Mr. G. H.
 Wakeman, said that on June 26th last there was a quarrel between the accused and the deceased over a pair of clogs at Aberdeen. They fought until they were separated by a man named Li Sing and immediately afterwards the deceased fell down and in a very short time expired. Medical evidence testified to the fact that deceased died of a ruptured spleen. Accused was arrested on the hill side after a report had been made to the Police.

Dr. H. MacFarlane gave evidence as to the cause of death and in answer to Mr. Justice Gompertz said a ruptured spleen had been known to have been caused by nothing at all. Deceased had a bruise over the spleen which he thought might have been caused by a bamboo or a clog. It was possible that deceased would have suffered the same injury had he turned sharply and slipped down. Deceased was more likely to have been struck. His spleen was enlarged.

Evidence describing the fight and the collapse of the accused was then taken.

The jury by a majority of 5 to 2 found the prisoner not guilty and he was discharged.

ALLEGED CHILD THEFT.

WITNESSES FOR CROWN DO NOT APPEAR.

Four Chinese witnesses for the Crown were not present at the Sessions to-day to give evidence in a charge of kidnapping against a Chinese named Wong Pak. The case was accordingly adjourned until to-morrow to allow the Police to make enquiries.

The case for the Crown, as presented by the Crown Solicitor, was that a woman took her son out with her for a walk and while she was changing some money at a money-changer's stall, the child was stolen. She went back to her house at Wanhsai and the father decided to issue notices mentioning that a reward would be paid for the return of the child. The same night a man knocked at the door and gave certain information. The woman took the informant to the Police Station and he and a detective went to 9 Third Street, Tai Han, situated behind the Polo ground and there found the child alone in a cubicle. There were three men in the house and they denied all knowledge of the child but said another man had done it. Two of the men and the informant were taken back to the Police Station and a detective left in charge of the other man. A little later the latter said he was hungry and went to a tea-house leaving the detective alone.

Sometimes afterwards another man—the accused—came to the house and asked for his friends and the detective told him he would take him to them at a tea-house. At the restaurant the accused was pointed out as the man who had stolen the child.

This morning the three men and the informant did not appear at Court and,
 as stated, the case was adjourned.

THE WRECK OF THE "CHIYO-MARU."

FINDING OF THE COURT OF INQUIRY.

At the conclusion of the inquiry at Tokyo into the stranding of the Chiyo Maru the proconsular officer demanded that Captain Bent's certificate be suspended for a period of four months, and that Chief Officer Sakai be reprimanded. News reached Shanghai last week that Captain Bent's certificate had been suspended for four months, but the Chief Officer escaped being reprimanded.

PARIS, July 17.

An enemy coup de main against a trench in the Russian sector in Champagne was repulsed with loss by a counter-attack.

THE VERDUN REGION.

PARIS, July 17.

The night has been comparatively quiet around Verdun except for a lively fusillade on Hill 304. Detachments of ours progressed west of Fleury and captured three machine guns. Two enemy attacks south-east of Nomeny, in Lorraine, were repulsed and prisoners taken.

THE IRISH QUESTION.

LONDON, July 17.

In the House of Commons Mr. Asquith announced that the Home Rule Amending Bill will be introduced before the recess. The permanent settlement of the Irish Question would be considered by the Imperial Conference after the war.

Mr. McKenna has not yet tapped several of the curious sources to which Holland has turned for the extra six million pounds needed to maintain the increased output of munitions referred to in the communiqué just issued by the Dutch General Headquarters. Railway seat tickets, for example are made to contribute £200,000; and £140,000 is the yield expected from "church property and pious foundations." Oddly of all, the Dutch Minister of Finance has been impelled to make a levy upon "all Christian names of a newly-born baby with the exception of one."

CRAMP COLIC.

No need of entering from cramps in the stomach, for internal pains, Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy never fails to relieve the most severe cases. Get it to-day, there will be no time to spend for it after the attack comes on. Portable by all Chemists and Druggists.

A communiqué states—South-east of Strunin, west of Lutsk, the enemy attacked in masses at many points and were driven back. The Russians crushed a desperate resistance, in the sectors of Oshoff and Goubine, and began to envelop the enemy, who fled, abandoning several heavy guns and field-guns. Up to the present 3,000 prisoners have been counted.

CASEMENT'S APPEAL.

LONDON, July 17.

The Court of Criminal Appeal, over which Mr. Justice Darling is presiding, began the hearing of Roger Casement's appeal against sentence of death for high treason.

Sergeant Sullivan, for appellant, indicated that the appeal was based on the grounds, firstly, that the charge was not an offence within the statute cited; secondly, that the Lord Chief Justice's definition of "adhering to the King's enemies" was inaccurate.

AMERICAN LEGAL NOMINATION.

WASHINGTON, July 16.

Mr. Justice Clark, of Ohio, has been nominated Supreme Judge in succession to Judge Hughes, the Republican Presidential candidate.

EDITH CAYELL'S "CRIME."

GERMAN SUBJECTS IMPRISONED FOR A LIKE OFFENCE.

A farmer and a carpenter in North Schleswig have recently been tried at Flensburg for having aided and abetted young men of military age in escaping over the Danish frontier. The farmer, whose fields ran right up to the frontier line, was proved to have been instrumental in enabling three youths to fly to the country. He was sentenced to five years' penal servitude, and the carpenter to two years.

This is practically the same offence for which Edith Cavell was done to death. She was accused of having aided the escape of men who might conceivably fight against Germany; the two German subjects in North Schleswig deprived the German army of a certain number of recruits. Whatever the technical difference between the two offences, their practical result is the same. The first offender was an Englishwoman; she was shot. The second offenders are German subjects (probably Danish by race or sympathies); they are imprisoned for five years or two years.

A FAMOUS VICTORY.

It was a summer evening. Old Seemann's beer was done. And he, before the sandy shore Was sitting in the sun. Instructing—for the hundredth time—His grandson Fritz von Hogenheim.

"'Twas where the German Ocean rears Its crests of snowy foam We met and beat the British Fleet, And then retreated home. We bolted like the deer," said he, "After that famous victory."

"When things were looking very blue A shoreward course was shaped; We lost about a score of ships, But all the rest escaped. And, in unconquerable pride, Made for a port in which to hide."

"A world of human pity filled Our noble Admiral's mind, And so he broke the action off And left the foe behind. We always act like that," said he, "After a famous victory."

"In our communiqué we made No indiscreet remark. For we had cautiously resolved To keep our losses dark. A course invariably applied By people on the winning side."

"And, after that, the beaten foe Blockaded all our ports, And ran us short of meat and bread, And goods of various sorts. Such things as this must always be After a famous victory."

"But why did we allow them to? The arless Fritz inquired. Because they had so strong a fleet They did as they desired. Such cruel things must always be While brutal Britain rules the sea."

"But, Grandpa," said little Fritz, "If we had really won, Why did not Prussia rule the sea. As Britain once had done?" "Oh, shut your silly mouth!" said he, "It was a famous victory."

GERMANY'S PRISONERS.

BARBAROUS TREATMENT OF RUSSIANS.

The indignation of the Russian people has been aroused to a high pitch by the constantly growing and convincing evidence of the savage and inhuman treatment which is being meted out to Russian prisoners of war in Germany. writes the Petrograd correspondent of the "Central News."

The following letter, published by a Petrograd paper written by a Russian prisoner of war in Germany, has created a great sensation and is being widely quoted—
"The life of war prisoners is a very hard one, particularly for the Russians. The French, English, and Belgians are better off, because they receive parcels from home nearly every day, whereas the Russians are suffering from hunger and cold. The food in our camp, as in others, is such that the Russian people would scarcely care to feed their pigs with it. The bread is half-moss, sawdust, and potatoes—half a pound of it for each man. For supper we have some kind of flour with hot water, and this we have eaten now every day for many months. Sometimes we receive sausage or half a herring. Most of our prisoners have become anemic and exhausted, especially those who are wounded or sick. Many have died. We live amid dirt; the barracks are never washed and we sleep on the floor. It is not possible that the Russians treat their prisoners in such a manner."

"The treatment of the Russian prisoners is brutal. They are struck with the fist or with a stick; they are tied and flogged; and there is no one to whom we can complain. Discipline is very severe, probably worse than that which exists in any criminal establishment. Most of us have been in two camps, but it is the same everywhere."

"Every body is compelled to work. Our prisoners are forced to carry out all the refuse and this combined with the daily round of starvation, produces a depressing effect on the spirit of the men."

"We are guarded by sentinels (territories) who are old men, lame, and half-blind—even the services of the men who have been set free from Russian prisons as invalids are utilized. The sentinels are armed with Russian and French rifles. The failures of the German army at the front are reflected on the prisoners, these days being marked by severe repression. We are worse than if we were dead."

"On the whole our lives are so miserable that we have sufficient cause for suicide. Now we have become somewhat accustomed to our sufferings, but what we endured at the beginning of our period of imprisonment can never be effaced from our memories."

A Russian war prisoner, Ivan Shou-pikin, who, with the comrades, succeeded in escaping from a German prisoners' camp, and is now in a Petrograd hospital, says: "It is painful to recall what we had to undergo. We were treated in a very cruel manner, we were beaten for every trifle; or worse, we were hung up. They tied ropes under our arms and pulled us about a yard from the ground, keeping us in this position for an hour. Sometimes we were tied to a tree. We were fed with turnips such as people give to cattle, and received five pounds of bread weekly. This is a kind of mixture, and you feel no desire to eat it. One of our men was shot dead on the spot because he stole four raw potatoes."

"Ten of our officers and soldiers, with faces of an ashen hue, have just arrived from prisons in Germany," writes Petroff in the "Russkoye Slovo." Several of them show signs of suffering, and the muscles of their faces are twitching nervously, whilst two of them suffer from hallucinations. These men have escaped from various German camps. Three of them are from a camp near Strasburg, where they were compelled to work on the German fortifications. In all seven attempted to escape from here, but only three succeeded; two were recaptured after being wounded."

According to the stories of fugitives the Russian prisoners are continually trying to escape. The treatment accorded them is so cruel and inhuman that they willingly face all manner of risks to escape. It was necessary to run through a burning forest in order to escape thousands of Russian prisoners would pass through the fire without shrinking."

LORD KITCHENER.

The following lines are by Mr. Robert Bridges, the Poet Laureate: Unflinching hero, watchful to foresee And face thy country's peril wheresoe'er, Directing war and peace with equal care, Till / long toil ennobled thou wert he Whom England call'd and bade "Set free."

What day the foe presumed on her despair And she herself had trust in none but thee:

Among Haroulae deeds the miracle That mass'd the labour of ten years in one Shall be thy monument. Thy work is done Ere we could thank thee; and the high sea swell Surgeth, heading where thy proud ship fell

By the lone Orkneys, ere the set of sun.

A London weekly points out that the Jutland battle occurred on the 31st day of this War; that Kitchener was in his 83rd year, whilst the news of his death was received on the 6th day of the month of 1916! And we have heard that the crew of the Champagne numbered 693! Strange, isn't it?

A REPRESENTATIVE REGIME.

PEKING PACKED WITH HERO-BOMBERS.

With the revival of the representative system of Government, every Tom, Dick and Harry seems to be sending representatives to Peking to lay the views of their respective bosses before the Government. Peking is now packed with this class of representatives. Enter any of the well-known hotels in Peking and you can lay your hand on one of these so-called representatives. You moment you enter the premises. You meet them in fashionable restaurants, tea-shops, theatres and other resorts such as the modern cafe in the Central Park.

If you see a number of carriages and automobiles outside a restaurant or cafe, you know a dinner is being given inside in honour of some of these representatives. In some cases a single individual represents several "prominent" men in other cases a single individual is represented by several representatives. The streets are also full of them. You see carriages and automobiles dashing hither and thither; in them you will find representatives of the category under notice. A humourist remarks that the door step of the President's Office and the floor of the office of the Premier have been worn down at least one inch during the last week by the frequent calls of these representatives.

But what are all these representatives doing here? Some, it is true, are here to assist in running the North and South; but the rest are here booming their respective "heros"—the persons they represent. Now that all the monarchists must leave Peking, there seems to be plenty of offices for the self-assumed heroes of revolution. It is, of course, undignified for these heroes to seek office, although they heartily desire to do so. So it is necessary for their agents—the representatives—to boost them a bit. Consequently the various vernacular papers are full of interviews with these representatives. In fact, one often sees mimeographed copies of the so-called interviews scattered broadcast by mail. By whom? The representatives, of course.

As misfortune will have it, this representatives represent "heros" of all shades and varieties of views, ideas, principles and what-not. So there is a conflict of representation and different methods of boosting. A certain group of representatives believe that Mr. T. is the man unanimously admitted and obeyed by the South; but another group repudiates the same and says that Mr. H. in the man of the hour. The third group then steps forward and says that they are all wrong for Mr. S. is really the person who has done the Herculean work of the republican cause.

The most interesting feature of this "representative" invasion of the Capital is the love which every group of representatives has for the other. Mention the name of a certain representative of a certain highly prominent man and watch for developments. You will be told that your informer is surprised to hear that Mr. S. and So has sent a representative to Peking. What does he represent? he will ask. He has no troops; no party, not even a follower, except his "representative in Peking, and so on. But in spite of it all the Government seems to think a great deal of these representatives. It humours them. It respects them. It listens to them, and it treats them to dinners and banquets. After all we are in a representative regime. Make, whether they represent individuals or the people. They are "representatives!"—Peking Gazette.

YUAN'S FAVOURITE CONCUBINE.

A TRUE STORY.

The "Peking Gazette" of July 7th prints in black type and in double column the following story—

Of the many strange happenings that preceded the death of Yuan Shih-kai, the most arresting is the following episode. It is related by a late eye-witness in the Palace; and we publish it in the interests of history and for its revelation of the character of a ruler whose life and fate must never cease to be a warning to future generations.

It is evening. A telegram is handed to Yuan: It is Chen Yi's despatch, declaring the independence of the great province of Szechuan.

The news moves Yuan powerfully and his body shakes under the passion rising in him. His eyes grow cruel; and with the telegram held in one hand like a death-warrant, he passes swiftly into the chamber of his favourite concubine and lays her and the child, who has lately borne him.

Blood and the death of the guileless and of the one he loves break the passion that might have choked him to death in an apoplectic fit; and so in a mysterious way it seems love saved him for a few days more from the death that might befall him through a great hatred of the man who failed him at the last moment.

Those in the dead ruler's confidence have been saying that he trusted Chen Yi greatly. They say it was Chen Yi who first spoke to him of the throne and who helped him to remove General Li Yuan-hung from the stronghold of Wu-chang as well as Tai Ao from Yunnan to Peking. Be this as it may there is no doubt that Yuan staggered like one palsied under Chen Yi's action in Szechuan. And his death followed that, quickened by a mighty hatred against his late captain and renegade at the death of his favourite woman.

Accompanying Yuan's letter to Chen Yi was a copy of which the "Peking Gazette" promptly. For sale by all Chemists and Druggists.
